Christian Relief Services

NOTEWORTHY

- Paul Krizek, Christian Relief Services' executive director, is a Democratic politician with a pro-abortion platform. Here is his stance according to his campaign website:

All people have a right to decide for themselves what to do with their bodies. This includes the decision to terminate an unplanned pregnancy. It is a deeply personal decision that should be between a pregnant person and their doctor and not determined by politicians. I am pro-choice and believe it is wrong to stigmatize those who have chosen to exercise their reproductive rights. Every pregnancy is different. I trust Virginians to make their own important life decisions, and that once they have made the decision to have an abortion, it should be safe, accessible, affordable, and free from punishment or judgment.
