ABORTION & CONTRACEPTION

- A representative from Convoy of Hope confirmed that the organization does not have a stance on abortion and contraception, as it is not related to its work. They also clarified what its "Women's Empowerment" initiative entails:

Our Women's Empowerment program provides materials, training, and small grants for startup businesses to women living in extreme poverty. Participants attend 15 trainings focused on financial literacy, nutrition for them and their families, and life skills. For six months following the startup, our staff and church-based volunteers visit weekly to provide personal counseling and ongoing support. At Convoy of Hope, we believe that when women are given the opportunity to generate income, they impact their families, their churches, and their community's economic standing. When you empower a woman, it never stops with her. Her reinvestment back into her children, family, and entire community are part of the solution to breaking the cycle of generational poverty.
