ABORTION & CONTRACEPTION

➤ Feed the Hungry's CEO Stefan Radelich responded to ALL's inquiry:

Our work throughout the world is done hand-in-hand with local churches, ministries and faith-based peer groups which hold to similar values and core beliefs. So regarding your question, 'Yes'. Feed The Hungry does take a stance on the issues you mentioned. While we do not discriminate in the distribution of food or relief aid on the basis of such matters nor demand conformity when it comes to rendering aid to hurting people no matter their background or persuasions, we do stand and speak on life issues from a Biblical perspective. Feed The Hungry is therefore pro-life, acknowledging that God is the creator and giver of life, a miracle that begins at conception. We do not advocate for contraception and have never included contraceptive devices in any of the goods or products we distribute, nor would we.

LGBTQ+

➤ Feed the Hungry's CEO Stefan Radelich responded to ALL's inquiry:

... on LGBTQ+ matters we take the Biblical position that, 'From the beginning of the creation, God made them male and female', and that according to His perfect will and plan, sexual activity should only occur between a husband and wife.
